THE PEDAGOGUES.

Fourth Day's Session of the Teachers' Institute.

MORNING SESSION.

Singing led by Mr. Asbury. Mrs. Kaye organist. Reading and prayer by Rev.
Mr. Watts of the M. E. Church, South.

The first work of the day was "Grading the Schools." Professor Willis took occasion to review the work done in city schools and stated that the High School course in the graded schools, if properly completed, would better equip the graduate for active service than a course in many of our so-called colleges.

The school laws of the state require that all the country schools of Kentucky be graded this year.

This is a step in the right direction.
Instead of a continual routine of going over the same work with no incentive to complete the work from year to year we shall have a system of graded work, on a plan similar to that of the city schools, the completion of which will entitle the pupil to enter any High School in the county, free of cost.

The lecturer spent some time in explaining the new school law, and urged that every teacher make himself perfectly familiar with all the requirements relative to course of study, reports, etc.

Superintendent Blatterman next addressed the teachers. He deplored the fact that there is too much machinery in the present system. Teachers are not puppets. He prefers to regard them as intelligent beings who know what is the best thing to be done to meet the requirements of their respective schools, therefore he would advise that teachers make their own programs, the state requirement to the contrary notwithstanding.

"Penmanship" was the subject of a chalk-talk by Mr. E. Swift. Creamer's scientific system of penmanship formed the basis of his remarks, and by means of an outlined form the lecturer demonstrated the system.

Miss Bettie Bean continued the discussion and all agree that she knows how to teach penmanship. She insures regular harmonious action of the pupils.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The feature of the afternoon work and in fact of the week's session was a lecture on "Educational Psychology" by Professor Willis. His talk was certainly a rare treat. Particularly interesting were his illustrations of the laws of heredity and environment. We think as our parents thought, we vote as father voted, we believe religiously as our mother believed. Every act of life is influenced by either heredity or environment.

As we followed the Instructor through the various subdivisions of the lecture new beauties of physical science were continually presented and more than ever we realized what a great and noble study is the science of the mind. Teachers must be familiar with the laws of mind in order that they may properly direct the education of the pupils entrusted to their care.

The discussion of the mental faculties brought out some very interesting features. As in the material world nothing can be annihilated so in the mental nothing can be destroyed, nothing can be forgotten. Memory is a room approached through the passage of intellect. Once a concept is stored in memory there is no possible way for it to get out except by the way whence it came, i. e., through the intellect. We may be unable at times to recall a name, fact or statement, but it is because of a confusion of thought, and in time perfect adjustment will take place and we remember everything clearly and distinctly.

To enumerate half of the interesting features of this lecture would require more time than the writer has at his disposal. Suffice it to say that the whole domain of mental science was covered by the lecturer, and when we state that for perhaps two hours he was given the closest attention, notwithstanding the oppressive heat, you may form some idea of the interest.

The attendance is constantly increasing, and it was necessary to provide additional seats for the accommodation of the visitors.

On July 1st, the beginning of the present fiscal year, there was in bond in the Louisville district 36,000,000 gallons of whisky. Of this amount 7,000,000 gallons have been taken out, and about 29, 000,000 gallons remain in bond.

"GOT TOGETHER."

Lexington's Great Club Given a Big Scare Yesterday.

Ten fiercely contested innings were played between Maysville and Lexington at the park yesterday afternoon without a result.

Both teams were on their mettle and the game was one that kept everybody on the anxious seat from the start until the tenth inning, when, with the score a tie, the game was called on account of darkness.

Lexington had out her strongest club, and never did a team work harder to win.

The locals worked equally as hard.
They were full of that never-say-die brand of ginger, and only for two little dingy errors in the first they would have won the game.

Wellner pitched a great game for Maysville, and he was elegantly received by Taylor, who played a magnificent all around game.

Knorr twirled for the visitors, and with the exception of two errors, which were costly, was given faultless support.

This postponed game will be played off this afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock, and both teams will continue to play until a result is reached, after which the second game will be called.

The following is the score:

NOTES.

The Georgetown team has disbanded.
Cox played a remarkably good game at at first yesterday.

Chard and Deisel will strengthen the home team wonderfully.

Chard and Menfort will be the battery for Maysville today and Gagen and Shabel for the visitors.

Knorr has improved wonderfully as a pitcher since he twirled for Maysville against Kelly's Killers a few years ago.

Knorr pitched a splendid game for the visitors. The locals touched him up for six clean hits, but they were all scattered.

Lexington's hard hitters wilted when they faced Wellner yesterday. They were only able to solve his delivery for four hits.

There was a large crowd witnessed yesterday's drawn battle. The program for this afternoon will draw a much larger one.

Sparks and Nie have joined the Ashland team. They are a strong battery and will strengthen that club in those points considerably.

One admission is all that will be charged patrons to witness both games this afternoon. Wellner and Knorr will be the opposing pitchers in the postponed game.

The ten inning game that was postponed yesterday on account of the darkness will be played off this afternoon, after which the regular game will be called.

Chard and Deisel missed the train at Cincinnati yesterday morning and disappointed a great many who were anxious to see them take part in yesterday's game. They arrived last night and will be in the game today.
